Sparsh @ IIM Bangalore

The Finalists with Ms.Madhura Chatrapathy and the co-ordinator from IIM B

Aishwarya and V Chaithanya Vijayan won the first prize in Sparsh, an event for mobilizing management aptitude to help non-government organizations. There were two case studies given out of which we chose an organisation known as ToeHold to observe the critical problems faced by it. All entries had to analyse these problems and present their analysis and recommendation to these institutions. Out of all entries, three teams were chosen for the final round which was to be held during Vista at IIM Bangalore. Apart from Aishwarya and V Chaithanya, there were two other finalists, one team from IIM B and the other from Great Lakes Institute of Management.

ToeHold Artisans Collaborative (TAC) is a dream project of catapulting the artisans from the shadows to the thresholds of global footwear fashion. It has been conceptualized and implemented through the synergistic efforts of the Central Leather Research Institute which has provided the design and technical inputs, ASCENT created the road maps to entrepreneurial initiatives and market linkages and National Leather Development Program which has supported this.

On October 1, they were all given a chance to interact with the representative of ToeHold and ASCENT, Ms.Madhura Chatrapathy who is both a Social and a Business Entrepreneur. Based on an interaction, they were required to give an implementable solution. On October 3 Team Vulcans-Aishwarya and V Chaithanya Vijayan gave their final presentation in front of a three member jury.
