ABOUT IDEA/VENTURE

Village Health Tech, an initiative founded by Manash Chaliha, is dedicated to transforming rural healthcare through innovative technology solutions. The organization directly addresses the prevalent challenges in many villages where access to quality healthcare is significantly limited due to a critical shortage of medical infrastructure, skilled doctors, and necessary diagnostic facilities. By deploying accessible and scalable tech, Village Health Tech aims to bridge this crucial gap, ensuring essential medical services reach underserved communities and ultimately improve health outcomes across rural populations.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

With 14 years of experience at PwC, EY, and Deloitte, He specialize in driving digital transformation and sustainable rural development through technology-driven governance solutions.
